B. Human Resources

1. GMHA Nurse Recruitment and Retention Initiatives

Mrs. Perez-Posadas informed the Board of the following:
- GRMC is offering the UOG graduate nurses a higher salary than GMHA is, which is posing a challenge.

- The Competitive Wage Act of 2014 was the latest nursing wage study done. With that, GMHA is proposing a wage study to include all the positions in the hospital.

Ms. Tuquero explained the document, the following was highlighted:

- The number of nurses needed per unit are stated, as well as the changes during a COVID surge.
- There is an RN wage comparison chart between GMHA and the other Government of Guam agencies.
- Ongoing active strategies are listed to maintain the current differentials.
- Proposed strategies are also listed to aid in the recruitment and retention of nurses. One of the proposed strategies is to establish nursing career pathways.
- Also listed is the goal to decrease the utilization of travel nurses.
- This is a living document, to be evaluated and adjusted annually or as necessary.

Trustee Almonte suggested the following to aid in the recruitment of nurses:

- Establishing a nursing program at GMHA to help the CNA’s, Tech’s, etc. receive the additional education needed to become an RN.
- Bring back the program for RN prepared individuals who are waiting to complete the NCLEX.

Ms. Tuquero added that, currently, there are NCLEX study groups for the RN prepared individuals. From this, a few technicians have become RN’s and are still at GMHA.
2. Res. 2022-16, Relative to Amending the Minimum Qualifications and Necessary Special Qualification Requirements of the Medical Records Coder I and II Positions

   - Create a video of the nurses to present to the students, highlighting the reasons why the nurses choose this career path.

   Ms. Habib added that she has started conversations with the GDOE’s Public Affairs Officer to inquire how to present to the middle and high school students about nursing and healthcare.

   Trustee Davis motioned, and it was seconded by Trustee Almonte to approve the GMHA Nurse Recruitment and Retention Initiatives. The motion carried with all ayes.

   Ms. Hechanova highlighted the following:
   - The positions were already created. The years of experience is what has been amended.
   - For the Coder I Position, the years of experience was three (3) years, however, it was amended to one (1) year. With that, GMHA will be able to recruit individuals who are undergoing the certification programs to become a medical recorders coder. From there, those individuals can be promoted to a medical recorders coder II.

   Trustee Evaristo motioned, and it was seconded by Trustee Davis to approve Res. 2022-16, Relative to Amending the Minimum Qualifications and Necessary Special Qualification Requirements of the Medical Records Coder I and II Positions. The motion carried with all ayes.

(Updated November 6, 2021)

Background Information
Why is there a nursing shortage?
Nursing staff shortages are not unique to Guam. The U.S. is in the midst of a critical nursing shortage that is expected to continue through 2030. We have an aging population, an aging workforce, limited supply of new nurses, and nurses leaving the workforce.

The Growing Nursing Shortage: The U.S. is projected to experience a shortage of Registered Nurses (RNs) that is expected to intensify as Baby Boomers age and the needs for health care grow. Compounding the problem is the fact that nursing schools across the country are struggling to expand capacity to meet the rising demand for care, given the national movement toward health care reform.

By 2022, there will be far more registered nurse jobs available than any other profession, at more than 100,000 per year.

The bravery and dedication of America’s nurses have been displayed in front-page newspaper stories across the country throughout the COVID-19 pandemic. However, the pandemic has also been a huge strain on nurses and the healthcare system, due in part to limited staff and resources. The nursing shortage facing America began long before the pandemic propelled it into the headlines once again.

Demand is on the Rise: As of February 2021, registered nursing was the fifth-most in-demand job in the American workforce, according to LinkedIn. Healthcare facilities are searching for skilled RNs because they are facing increased patient demand for care.

The country has a larger population over the age of 65 than ever before in its history, composed primarily of baby boomers (those born between 1946 and 1964). This 65+ demographic has grown rapidly, jumping from 41 million people in 2011 to 71 million in 2019—an enormous 73% increase. And the U.S. Census Bureau projected that number to continue to rise, estimating it will reach 73 million by 2030.

With better and more accessible healthcare, the growing population of seniors requires more health services due to age-related conditions. Lengthened lifespans stretch out the timeframe when patients require services, thus adding pressure to an already strained healthcare system.

With more than 500,000 seasoned RNs anticipated to retire by 2022, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics projects the need for 1.1 million new RNs for expansion and replacement of retirees, and to avoid a nursing shortage.

The Educator Exodus: Nurses need to be taught by other nurses. As the average age of the RN population has increased, so has the age of RNs who have stepped into the role of educator. They, too, are looking toward retirement, leaving nursing schools without a strong pipeline of teachers to take their place.

Proposed Strategies:

|   | Establish Nursing Career Pathways | Leadership and Administrative Pathways:
|---|-----------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
|   |                                   | • Nursing Administrative and Leadership positions
|   |                                   | • Nursing Management positions
|   |                                   | Clinical Pathways for Specialty Units:
|   |                                   | • ICU, OR, Hemo, ER
| 2. | Enhancement of clinical performance | Build the Staff Nurse Training Officer Team
|   |                                   | • To assess learning needs specific to their clinical areas
|   |                                   | • Further develop knowledge, skills, and performance, thus improving patient outcomes
|   |                                   | • To support nursing staff to boost confidence and work optimally with other members of the healthcare team
| 3. | Upward mobility opportunity for Staff Nurses | Open the Staff Nurse III position
|   |                                   | • Will allow upward mobility for clinical experts in their areas
|   |                                   | • Will take a lead role in assisting the Unit Supervisor, focusing on strengthening clinical practices and management of care
| 4. | Offer a Charge Nurse Incentive | • Charge nurses oversee specific departments and are responsible for the many details that make a unit run smoothly. While charge nurses have bedside responsibilities, they are also the person who coordinates the schedules and assigns each nurse’s duties and responsibilities. They ensure that admissions and discharges are running smoothly and that all supplies and medications are available as needed, while also being available to communicate with physicians, members of the healthcare team, patients, and family members should an issue require attention.
| 5. | Explore Individual Contracts for Nurses | Pros:
|   |                                   | • Less Expensive compared to travel agency contracts
|   |                                   | • Attractive to those seeking short-term employment
|   |                                   | Cons:
|   |                                   | • Applicants look for food, housing, anc travel stipends
|   |                                   | • Permanent employees may seek this an employment option
|   |                                   | • Will benefit from a coordinator or recruiter
| 6. | Explore Per Diem Rates | Regulations include:
|   |                                   | • Max 30 hours per pay period

- Beyond 30 hours, additional hours will be paid at Step 1
- Not eligible for overtime rates
- Not eligible for night differential
- Not eligible for holiday pay, certification pay, on-call pay, and weekend differentials
- Complicated payroll management

Recruitment and Retention Challenges
- Lower base wages compared to national wages
- Remote location from resource pools
- Limited numbers of local nurse graduates from UOG and GCC
- Limited upward mobility for clinical nurses
- Pay structure same for all units (no difference in wages for higher skilled or specialty areas)
- Recommendation for charge nurse incentive (common in other hospitals)
- Working environment, workplace challenges

WASHINGTON – The family of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. and their supporters, some shouting, “Hey Hey! Ho Ho! Voter suppression has got to go,” marched in Washington on Monday urging passage of a law to protect voters from racial discrimination.

As part of the annual Martin Luther King Jr. Day D.C. Peace Walk, the King family and more than 100 national and local civil rights groups strode across the Frederick Douglass Memorial Bridge calling on President Joe Biden’s Democrats to pass a bill in the U.S. Senate.

The march followed a disappointing week for Biden, who went to the Capitol to urge Senate colleagues to change their razor-thin majorities in at least one chamber of Congress in the Nov. 8, 2022, election.

For minority and low-income voters to cast ballots.

But implored them to push through voting-rights legislation.

“Two holdout senators, only to be forcefully rejected by two conservative Democrats who effectively hold veto power in the evenly split chamber.

In a separate speech livestreamed to the late Rev. King’s Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta, Vice President Kamala Harris also urged the Senate to act, warning that efforts to restrict voting in some U.S. states could make it more difficult for millions of Americans to vote.

“We must not be complacent or complicit,” Harris said. “We must not give up, and we must not give in. To truly honor the legacy of the man we celebrate today, we must continue to fight for the freedom to vote, for freedom for all.”

At a rally before Monday’s March, King’s son, Martin Luther King III, praised Democrats for passing a sweeping infrastructure bill last year, but implored them to push through voting-rights legislation.

“You were successful with infrastructure, which was a great thing,” King said to a crowd of hundreds, “but we need you to use that same energy to ensure that all Americans have the unencumbered right to vote.”

King III, his wife, Arndrea Waters King, and their daughter Yolanda Renee King, led the march across the bridge.

“We need to make sure that everyone in this country can get to the polls, vote, and have their vote heard,” said Lisa Meunier, 53, of Washington, who joined the marchers.

The bill before the Senate would expand access to mail-in voting, strengthen federal oversight of elections in states with a history of racial discrimination and tighten campaign finance rules. Democratic supporters argue it is needed to counter a wave of new restrictions on voting passed in Republican-led states that election observers say would make it harder for minority and low-income voters to cast ballots.

New restrictions have emerged following former President Donald Trump’s false claims that his 2020 election defeat was the result of widespread fraud.

‘History will remember’

Top Senate Democrat Chuck Schumer has said the chamber would take up the bill on Tuesday, a delay from his earlier plan to hold a procedural vote on the bill by Monday, the federal holiday honoring King.

Republicans, who hold half the 100 seats in the Senate, are united in opposition to the bill, which they brand a partisan power grab. That leaves Biden and Schumer just one path to passing it: persuading conservative Democratic Sens. Joe Manchin and Kyrsten Sinema to agree to change the chamber’s filibuster rule that requires at least 60 senators to agree on most legislation.

Yolanda Renee King addressed comments to the two holdout senators after the march.

“Senator Sinema, Senator Manchin, our future hinges on your decision, and history will remember what choice you make,” she said.

Some civil rights groups in Georgia that helped propel Biden to presidential victory during the 2020 election boycotted his voting rights speech in Atlanta last week, saying they were disappointed by Biden’s lack of action.

“Black voters risked everything – including their own health at the height of the pandemic – to vote Biden and Senate Democrats into office,” wrote Cliff Albright and LaTosha Brown, co-founders of Black Voters Matter in a response to Biden’s speech.

Should these groups lose their enthusiasm for Democrats, it could increase the party’s chances of losing their razor-thin majorities in at least one chamber of Congress in the Nov. 8, 2022, election.

Yolanda Townsend, who called herself a “senior” from the Washington, D.C., area, said at Monday’s rally that she had found Biden’s Georgia speech timely and forceful.

“I wish it was drawn earlier, but I think a line in the sand has been drawn and you’re either with us or against us,” Townsend said.

Peru appeals for help to clean up major oil spill linked to the Tonga volcano eruption

By Claire Parker

The Washington Post

Peru has appealed for international assistance to respond to a major oil spill connected to the eruption of an underwater volcano near Tonga last week.

An Italian-flagged tanker spilled 6,000 barrels of oil in the Pacific Ocean on Jan. 15, close to La Pampilla refinery outside Lima, Peruvian authorities said. The Spanish company Repsol, which operates the refinery, blamed the volcanic eruption near Tonga that sent large tsunami waves across the ocean.

The eruption triggered tsunami warnings in neighboring countries Chile and Ecuador, but Peru did not issue a similar alert. Two women in northern Peru were reportedly swept out to sea and drowned when massive waves crashed over a beach.

The Italian shipping company transporting the oil said the tanker was unloading its cargo at La Pampilla, the country’s largest refinery, when waves crashed over a beach.

U.S. and Japan pledge quick resolution on difficult tariff talks

(Bloomberg) – U.S. President Joe Biden and Japanese Prime Minister Fumio Kishida pledged to seek a swift resolution to continuing talks over trade and tariffs while pushing back on China’s efforts to “change the status quo” in the East and South China Seas.

In a 90-minute video call on Friday, the two allies also agreed to create a new high-level forum to help guide economic relations between their nations. Biden also accepted Kishida’s invitation to visit Japan, likely in the spring during a meeting of the so-called Quad bloc of nations, according to a U.S. official who briefed reporters after the call.

Facing shared threats from China and North Korea, the two leaders agreed that the U.S.-Japan alliance “has never been stronger or more necessary,” the White House said.

Despite the bonhomie, the promise of a “swift” resolution to trade issues signals the leaders were unable to agree yet over whether to ease or eliminate tariffs imposed by the U.S. under the Trump administration in 2018, on Japanese steel and aluminum imports. The so-called Section 232 tariffs were applied on national security grounds and have been a thorn in otherwise close ties.

Beyond economic relations and security issues -- including a condemnation of North Korea’s recent missile launches -- China’s actions in the region were a key focus of discussion, according to a White House statement.

“The two leaders resolved to push back against the People’s Republic of China’s attempts to change the status quo in the East China Sea and South China Sea; underscored the importance of peace and stability across the Taiwan Strait and the peaceful resolution of cross-Strait issues; they shared concern about PRC practices in Xinjiang and Hong Kong,” according to the statement.
